Anne Snyder is the editor-in-chief of Comment magazine, a Christian inspired think tank devoted to renewing North American social architecture. She has also directed The Philanthropy Roundtable's Character Initiative since 2016, a program that seeks to help American foundations and business leaders strengthen the free society.

Selected Quotations

- "The foundational fact is you cannot earn your way into a state of grace—this denies grace's power, and subverts its very definition."
- "I see that those who are more courageous, or have a more pronounced spiritual freedom, tend to be more honest about their inner frailties. And this is regardless of whether they are believers or not."
- "If we understand that the world is going to change, we need to recognize everyone's responsibility in this process. If the world will be re-designed, how will it be re-designed? It is an invitation to me and to everyone who wants to play a role in this change."
- "You can hit bottom and come out of it, not with an answer, but with a light, considering that there is a different context in which to regard the things that happen in your life."
